COVER LETTER

Dear Sir or Madam,

With this letter, I would like to express my interest

Currently, I am studying a master's degree program in Security Studies at the Charles University in Prague. I am very enthusiastic about the possibility to spend one semester by deepening my knowledge and increasing my level of expertise at an institution such as the Slovak Security Policy Institute. Concerning my academic background, I am certain that an internship at SSPI will improve my skills and enhance my future career opportunities.

I have decided to apply for because I was thrilled by the scope of the institute's activities related to my field of study. I am certain that experience from inside of this non-governmental organization can positively enrich my knowledge as well as offer me another perspective on certain security issues. Moreover, I will take part in an upcoming project called In this project, I will improve project management and analytical skills. I will also take part in working meetings with established security experts from both the Czech Republic and Slovakia. By working on this project I also expect to establish professional contacts and thus enlarge my professional network will give me an authentic experience in dealing and working with high-ranking government officials and it can increase my chances to get a job I want.

Concerning my language skills, since my current study program is taught completely in English, I have got no difficulties studying and working in an English-speaking environment. Furthermore, from my previous studies, I have got basics of Russian language and I am determined to work on my improvement.

Thank you for considering my request. I look forward to your response.

Yours faithfully,

UNIVERZITA KARLOVA

Reading Skills	Level	Your Performance
Reading		Test takers who receive a score at the HIGH level, as you did, typically understand academic texts in English that require a wide range of reading abilities regardless of the difficulty of the texts. Test takers who score at the HIGH level, typically • have a very good command of academic vocabulary and grammatical structure; • can understand and connect information, make appropriate inferences, and synthesize ideas, even when the text is conceptually dense and the language is complex; • can recognize the expository organization of a text and the role that specific information serves within the larger text, even when the text is conceptually dense; and • can abstract major ideas from a text, even when the text is conceptually dense and contains complex language.

Listening Skills	Level	Your Performance
Listening		Test takers who receive a score at the HIGH level, as you did, typically understand conversations and lectures in English that present a wide range of listening demands. These demands can include difficult vocabulary (uncommon terms, or colloquial or figurative language), complex grammatical structures, abstract or complex ideas, and/or making sense of unexpected or seemingly contradictory information. When listening to lectures and conversations like these, test takers at the HIGH level typically can • understand main ideas and important details, whether they are stated or implied; • distinguish more important ideas from less important ones; • understand how information is being used (for example, to provide evidence for a claim or describe a step in a complex process); • recognize how pieces of information are connected (for example, in a cause-and-effect relationship); • understand many different ways that speakers use language for purposes other than to give information (for example, to emphasize a point, express agreement or disagreement, or convey intentions indirectly); and • synthesize information, even when it is not presented in sequence, and make correct inferences on the basis of that information.
